Haiti Six Months Later - Over the rolling green mountains of Haiti's Plateau Central lie tracts of land dotted by tiny wood huts. Although the earth yearns to be sown with seeds, it remains still. In these rural areas, where most families live from harvest to harvest in meager circumstances, they have given up the precious seeds set aside for the next planting to cook them for their guests. Many rural Haitians did not hesitate for a moment to take in victims of the earthquake who fled Port-au-Prince and other affected areas, having lost their homes, family members and friends, and wanting to escape the scenes of destruction and chaos surrounding them. Many arrived in their new environment merely with the clothes on their backs. "In many cases, people are taking in strangers. They see people arriving who are hungry and have nothing. They may have little themselves but they take them in without hesitation. It is incredible to see such tremendous giving," explains Danielle Leblanc, Development and Peace's Emergency Program Officer for Haiti. The immense generosity of this gesture takes on even greater proportions, when the reality of the situation becomes apparent. "The threat of a food crisis is very real," says Danielle. It is a concern that D. & P. has made a priority for its post-emergency programming in Haiti. As a first step, D. & P. is supporting several local partners that are launching agricultural projects. The aim is to distribute seeds to 20,500 families, which will benefit 102,500 people. A similar project is being offered by a new D. & P. partner. Their seed distribution program, which includes tools, will take place in Laval in the southeast part of the country and aims to reach 500 families. Both these programs also aim to reinforce community spirit by offering technical support and encouraging the involvement of those displaced in the cultivation of the land. Development and Peace is proud to support these projects, which honour the generosity and solidarity of Haitians in their struggle to re-build their country.

Youth Ministry NEWS

Please contact Joanne Kanerva, Youth Minister at 905-336-7144 ext. 28; stgabescyo@hotmail.com regarding the following:

Vacation Bible Camp "Holy Heroes" - This week of fun, faith and friendship, which has been offered at our Parish for many years, was a great success thanks to the love and support of so many special people. We were showered with Blessings, we had wonderful weather, lovely children at camp, many donations of snack items and our camp volunteer staff was so excellent and lived the gospel values and set a Christian example of peace and love. Our theme of "Holy Heroes" focusing on the Saints in Jesus' family, helped us to see that we are surrounded by Heroes who help us every day. Everyday Heroes who volunteered at camp and who are the most wonderful, unselfish, kind and the best fun people, are too numerous to mention. They are awesome and appreciated for all they do for the youth of St. Gabriel Parish. We were pleased to have visits from Heroes Father Aleks, Constable Fredo, Lifeguard Travis and Peace Cadet James, who live in God's service and help God to build the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. God Bless you All, have a safe and happy summer.

Children's Liturgy of the Word - Many thanks to our excellent Children's Liturgists for their wisdom, generosity and devotion to God and His children. Have a safe and lovely summer! Children's Liturgy will be held most Sundays in the summer, however teachers will not be scheduled officially. If you wish to teach, please join in.

Saint Gabriel Church Youth Ministry Program - "Let the children come to me and do not stop them." These words of our Lord Jesus Christ are the very foundation of Youth Ministry at St. Gabriel's. The inclusive and welcome natures of our programs for youth are ways that we as a community can show our commitment to Living the Gospel as Christ's witnesses and truly welcoming God's children to His Church. Ongoing opportunities for children, youth and young adults. To get involved, join our prayer buddies or for more information, please call Joanne at the office.
